Notes to the Authors

'Sambodhi' welcomes research papers on Indological subjects only, with its focus on significantly new as well as important areas :

- Counter arguments may also be incorporated in the research paper as it would help readers judge the research study.
- As most of the readers of 'Sambodhi' are usually familiar with the history; historical preliminaries may be avoided unless they are absolutely necessary for the development of the arguments.
- The paper should be in simple language and jargon may be avoided as far as possible.
- Standard diacritical marks should be used for Sanskrit terms in the paper.
- The research paper may be of 3000 to 6000 words.
- Research papers for 'Sambodhi' should be sent to the editor in a digitised form, preferably in Times New Roman for English and in Unicode Fonts for Hindi or Gujarati.
- Research paper should contain author's name, telephone no./mobile no., author's Institutional affiliation and complete mailing address.
- Research paper should include authentic references and quotes as per international research standards.
- 'Sambodhi' accepts research papers which are not published elsewhere.

Proofs will be sent to the author if there is sufficient time to do so. They should be corrected and returned to the Editor within ten days. Major alterations to the text may not be accepted.

Author will be sent ten off-prints of their article with one copy of Sambodhi free of cost.

Copyright of articles published in the Sambodhi will remain vested with L. D. Institute of Indology. For further information please do not hesitate to contacts on following address :
